DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

2. Claim 16 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Claim 16 directs to information and a medium. Since the medium do not provide any functional interrelationship to the medium for controlling the medium to access the information from the medium or impart to any software and hardware structural components to perform a function that is processed by a computer, the information themselves can not make them statutory. See MPEP 2100. The recitation "the video data recording device ... picture video file" at the last three lines is mere intended use since there is no recitation in the claim to specify how the video management information file is read out and is interact with any means or circuit of the recording device or reproducing device to reproduce the still picture file.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 17-19 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed 30 March 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that "This video recording manager information file is functional and has the claimed relationship with the hardware claimed as "a data recording device or a reproducing device accesses the video recording manager information file of the second area to record or reproduce the still picture video file." In response, is noted that the device provide function to record and reproduce the still video data, not the manager information . How a lead in area , a lead out area or the manager information on a medium interact to any means or circuits to control record or reproduce the still picture file are not specify in the claims .

Applicant argues that " In this respect, MPEP §2106 discusses statutory subject matter in relation to data structures of a computer readable medium. Particularly, MPEP §2106 provides, a claimed computer-readable medium encoded with a data structure defines structural and functional interrelationships between the data structure and the computer software and hardware components which permit the data structure's functionality to be realized, and is thus statutory. In response , it is noted that the applicant argument is not recited in the claims . Nowhere in claims do they recite a computer readable medium encoded with data structure defining structural and functional interrelationships between the data structure and the computer software and hardware components which permit the data structure's functionality to be realized .

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
